ORDER..... 12

BACKGROUND

This action follows a long history of the government’s efforts to collect over $20 million in tax liabilities from Ronald and Annette Talmage. It also follows a group of foreign investors’ multiple efforts to recoup investments from the Talmages and entities owned or controlled by Ronald Talmage (Heng Cheong Pacific Limited (“HCPL”); New Century Properties Limited (“NCPL”); and World-Wide Investment Services Limited (“WWIS”)). The parties’ disputes center on interests in and priority to proceeds from the sale of two parcels of real property: the “RiverCliff Property” located at 35701 N.E. Chamberlain Rd., Corbett, Oregon 97018; and the “Liberty Property” located at 3482 East 5100 North, Liberty, Utah 84310.

The government has obtained judgments in the District of Oregon<sup>4</sup> (by default) and the District of Utah<sup>5</sup> (after trial on the merits) foreclosing on federal tax liens against the RiverCliff Property<sup>6</sup> and the Liberty Property,<sup>7</sup> which authorized the properties’ sale. A trust, on behalf of the foreign investors, obtained a $90 million default judgment (after trebling) against Ronald Talmage and other individuals and entities in Utah state court.<sup>8</sup> The foreign investors' trust has also had a quiet title action regarding the RiverCliff Property dismissed for failure to state a claim in the District of Oregon.<sup>9</sup> And the foreign investors' trust was relevant to a quiet title counterclaim regarding the Liberty Property,<sup>10</sup> which was rejected and dismissed following a bench trial in the District of Utah.<sup>11</sup> The foreign investors are also the impetus behind Chapter 7 and Chapter 15 bankruptcy cases involving HCPL, NCPL, and WWIS, as well as adversary proceedings arising within the Chapter 7 bankruptcy cases.<sup>12</sup>

On August 27, 2019 (approximately two months after the conclusion of the District of Utah bench trial regarding the Liberty Property), a subgroup of the foreign investors initiated involuntary Chapter 7 bankruptcy proceedings against HCPL, NCPL, and WWIS in the District of Puerto Rico.<sup>13</sup> Approximately two months later, in October 2019, the same subgroup of foreign investors initiated insolvency proceedings against HCPL, NCPL, and WWIS in the High

Upon recognition and conversion, the Foreign Representatives initiated two adversary proceedings<sup>19</sup> against the government and others to recover the RiverCliff Property and the Liberty Property. The government unsuccessfully sought dismissal of the adversary proceedings.<sup>20</sup> However, the District of Puerto Rico sua sponte raised procedural issues with the bankruptcy cases’ conversion from Chapter 7 to Chapter 15 and with the propriety of Puerto Rico as the cases’ venue.<sup>21</sup> On March 22, 2021, the cases were reconverted back to Chapter 7

Upon the cases' transfer to the District of Utah, the government again sought dismissal of the adversary proceedings.<sup>23</sup> These motions to dismiss remain pending. On May 26, 2022, the government's motions to withdraw the bankruptcy references for the adversary proceedings were granted.<sup>28</sup> Cause existed for the withdrawal of references because the District Court's overwhelming familiarity and knowledge of the issues presented in the adversary proceedings.<sup>29</sup> This was despite many of the issues being related to core bankruptcy proceedings.<sup>30</sup> However, the motions were denied regarding withdrawal of the bankruptcy references for the Chapter 15 cases.<sup>31</sup> This was because the cases were core bankruptcy proceedings and, unlike the adversary proceedings, the District Court had no specialized knowledge of the facts bearing on recognition of the BVI insolvency case as a foreign main proceeding.<sup>32</sup>

Following the withdrawal of the bankruptcy reference for the adversary proceedings, the government was permitted to amend its answers to include counterclaims against all known individuals and entities asserting interests in the RiverCliff and Liberty Properties.<sup>33</sup> This was in part because no one prior case had involved all parties claiming interest in the properties and the "time ha[d] come to put an end to litigation involving who is entitled to the[] properties and the proceeds of their sale"<sup>34</sup> The Foreign Representative then moved to voluntary dismissal of their

Minimal substantive action has occurred in the Chapter 7 bankruptcy cases since the withdrawal of the bankruptcy references for the adversary proceedings. On August 5, 2022, the Foreign Representatives filed an objection to the government's proof of claim ("Foreign Representatives' Objection").<sup>39</sup> The Foreign Representative argued, among other things, that the proof of claim should be disallowed because the government cannot prove that the Debtors are liable for the Talmages' tax liabilities based on the Debtors being alter egos or nominees of the Talmages.<sup>40</sup> The government then filed its Motion seeking withdrawal of the Foreign Representative's Objection on August 29, 2022. And on November 2, 2022, the Bankruptcy Court held a hearing on the Foreign Representatives' Objection.<sup>41</sup>

At the hearing, the Bankruptcy Court continued further proceedings without date to allow the government's Motion to be determined by the District Court.<sup>42</sup> The Bankruptcy Court expressly stated that it made this determination "primarily" because the issues raised by the

Foreign Representatives are “closely related” to the issues in the adversary proceedings for which the bankruptcy references were withdrawn.<sup>43</sup>

DISCUSSION

Under 28 U.S.C. § 157(a), “each district court may provide that any or all cases under title 11 and any or all proceedings arising under title 11 . . . shall be referred to the bankruptcy judges for the district.”<sup>44</sup> However, the district court retains authority to withdraw a bankruptcy reference “in whole or in part . . . on its own motion or on timely motion of any party, for cause shown.”<sup>45</sup> The government seeks such permissive withdrawal of the bankruptcy reference for the Foreign Representatives’ Objection, and “bears the burden of showing ‘cause.’”<sup>46</sup>

The government’s Motion is timely

“The reason for the timeliness requirement [of a motion to withdraw a bankruptcy reference] is to prevent parties from forum shopping, stalling, . . . otherwise engaging in obstructionist tactics[,]”<sup>47</sup> or “wasting the resources of the [c]ourt and all parties involved.”<sup>48</sup> Under DUCivR 83-7.4(c)(1), “a [w]ithdrawal [m]otion seeking to withdraw the reference of a case may be made at any time.”<sup>49</sup> “Courts, however, have generally defined [a] timely [withdrawal motion] as [being filed] as soon as possible after the moving party is aware of grounds for withdrawal of reference or as at the first reasonable opportunity after the moving party is aware of grounds for withdrawal of reference.”<sup>50</sup> And for contested matters the moving party “must file a withdrawal motion simultaneously with their response.”<sup>51</sup>

The government filed its Motion 24 days after the filing of the Foreign Representatives’ Objection. The Motion was simultaneously filed with the government’s response to the Foreign Representatives’ Objection.<sup>52</sup> And the Motion’s filing was the government’s first action in the Chapter 7 cases following the filing of the Foreign Representatives’ Objection. Therefore, the government’s Motion is timely.

Cause exists to withdraw the bankruptcy reference for the Foreign Representatives’ Objection

In determining whether cause exists for permissive withdrawal of a bankruptcy reference, the following factors are considered: “(1) whether the claim is a core [bankruptcy] proceeding; (2) judicial economy, convenience, and the bankruptcy court’s knowledge of the facts; (3) uniformity and efficiency of bankruptcy administration; (4) reduction of forum shopping and confusion; (5) conservation of debtor and creditor resources; and (6) whether the parties have requested a jury trial.”<sup>53</sup> Whether the claim is a core bankruptcy proceeding is generally considered the most important factor.<sup>54</sup> And permissive withdrawal of a bankruptcy reference is not favored.<sup>55</sup> Nevertheless, “a permissive withdrawal of the [bankruptcy] reference is within the sound discretion of the [district] court and predicated upon ‘cause’ shown on a case by case basis.”<sup>56</sup>

The Foreign Representatives’ Objection is a core bankruptcy proceeding under 28 U.S.C. § 157(b)(2)(B) because it involves the “allowance or disallowance of claims against the [bankruptcy] estate.”<sup>57</sup> Thus, the first factor favors denial of the government’s Motion. But this factor is not dispositive of the government’s Motion. As the Bankruptcy Court correctly recognized at the November 2, 2022 hearing, the issues involved in the Foreign Representatives’ Objection are closely related to the issues in the adversary proceedings for which the bankruptcy references were withdrawn. These issues relate to the Talmages’ use and control of the Debtors. Having presided over a lengthy bench trial involving the Liberty Property, which involved in depth consideration of the Talmages’ finances including their use and control of the Debtors, the District Court’s familiarity and knowledge of the issues is much deeper than the Bankruptcy Court.

This knowledge, and because the bankruptcy references for the adversary proceedings are already withdrawn and consolidation of the cases is sought,<sup>58</sup> overwhelmingly supports granting the government’s Motion. Withdrawal of the bankruptcy reference for the Foreign Representatives’ Objection will promote judicial economy and convenience by avoiding duplicative discovery and placing the issues under the same governing scheduling order. Withdrawal of the bankruptcy reference will also avoid any potential for inconsistent rulings with the adversary proceedings, which will foster uniformity and efficiency with the Debtors’

Chapter 7 bankruptcy administration. Additionally, having the closely related issues of the Foreign Representatives' Objection and the adversary proceedings decided by the District Court avoids forum shopping,<sup>59</sup> will reduce confusion, and conserves debtor and creditor resources. Therefore, the second, third, fourth, and fifth factors each heavily favor granting the government's Motion.

Finally, the sixth factor (whether a jury trial has been requested) does not materially affect the analysis. The Foreign Representatives' Objection is not subject to a jury trial. And no request for jury trial has been made in the adversary proceedings for which consolidation with this case is sought.

On balance, despite the implication of core bankruptcy proceedings favoring the bankruptcy references, cause exists for withdrawing the references for the Foreign Representatives' Objection. The close relation of the factual and legal issues raised in the Foreign Representatives' Objection and the adversary proceedings for which the bankruptcy references have already been withdrawn cannot be ignored. The District Court's knowledge of these issues, as well as the benefits of having these issues simultaneously by the same court are preeminent. And ultimately, the outcome of the Foreign Representatives' Objection and the adversary proceedings has the potential to impact the final judgments entered in prior litigation. Therefore, the government's Motion<sup>60</sup> is GRANTED.

<sup>59</sup> Without finding that the Foreign Representatives have attempted forum shopping among the Bankruptcy Court and District Court, it is noteworthy that the timing of the Foreign Representatives' Objection coincides with the timing of the Foreign Representatives' attempt to voluntarily dismiss their claims in the adversary proceedings. The Foreign Representatives' purported basis for seeking voluntary dismissal of their claims was that "it is no longer in the best interest of their estates to continue incurring the costs of this litigation[.]" Voluntary Dismissal Motion at 4. Nevertheless, approximately 10 days later, the Foreign Representative made the decision to further litigate their disputes with the government by filing their Objection to the government's proof of claim.
